Folke Becker, Prominent in Paper Industry, Dies Here

Services Monday Afternoon in Methodist Church

N. F. (Folke) Becker, 70, who guided the Rhinelander Paper Co. to a place of eminence in the paper industry, died at 6:45 p.m. Friday in St. Mary's Hospital here after a brief illness with leukemia.

His ailment was diagnosed here about two weeks ago and that diagnosis was confirmed at Rochester, Minn. He returned to the hospital here a week ago.

Funeral services will be held at 2 p.m. Monday in the First Methodist Church, since the new Congregational Church is under construction. Dr. Charles Wicks, former pastor of the Congregational Church here, will officiate. Burial will be in Wisconsin Memorial Park Cemetery, Milwaukee.

The body will be taken to the church at 1 p.m. Monday. The Carlson Funeral Home is in charge of arrangements.

Memorials Established.

Memorials in Mr. Becker's name have been established for the Congregational Church and the American Cancer Society. Contributions may be sent to either recipient in his name.

Mr. Becker, who lived at 209 E. Frederick St., was married to Alice Ewing June 28, 1916, in Lemington, N. J.

Surviving are his wife; two daughters, Mrs. Dickson (Lisa) Smith of Wellesley, Mass., Mrs. John F. (Jane) Tomek of Scarsdale, Ariz.; two sons, John Becker of New Canaan, Conn., and Folke Becker Jr. of Wausau; one brother, Gustav Becker of Fox River Grove, Ill.; and 12 grandchildren. One sister and one brother preceded him in death.

Born in Sweden.

Nils Folke Becker, well known throughout the pulp and paper industry in the United States and Europe, served as general manager of the Rhinelander Paper Co. from 1928 until Jan. 1, 1957. He was president of the company from 1935 until 1954, when he became chairman of the board.

Mr. Becker, born Nov. 7, 1891, in Jonkoping, Sweden, was educated at Oslo, Norway. His father was a well-known paper engineer and operator who had built pulp and paper mills in both Sweden and Norway.

Mr. Becker served in the Swedish army and was graduated in chemical engineering at Staatliches Friedrichs Polytechnikum in Koethen-Anhalt, Germany. Before this formal education he spent two years as an apprentice in a glassine and greaseproof mill in Norway and worked in the Bruderahus Machine Works, manufacturers of paper making machinery, in Germany.

During school vacations he also worked in pulp and paper mills in Finland and Sweden. After receiving his degree he did post-graduate work at Darmstadt in Germany.

Came to U. S. in 1914.

He came to the United States in 1914 and became a citizen in 1919. He began his career in this country with the former Thames River Specialty Co., now known as Robert Gair Co., at New London, Conn. After half a year there he was employed as a chemist for the Warren Manufacturing Co., now the Riegel Paper Corp. In 1916 he rebuilt the Westfield River Paper Co. at Russell, Mass., where he became plant superintendent.

$1 Million Stock Theft Solved; Bold Clerk Arrested

NEW YORK (AP) — It was a simple case of larceny, but even the Brinks robbers would blink in awe at the daring of a $120-a-week clerk accused of stealing $1.3 million in stock certificates from a Wall Street brokerage house.

Police and the FBI announced solution of one of the biggest stock thefts of all time with the arrests Friday of four men. They included the clerk and a confederate who buried most of the treasure in a vacant lot for a week before turning it over to a mysterious "Mr. X."

"Mr. X," the only identity planned on him by the district attorney's office, was described as a 30-year-old free lance salesman who disposed of the stolen securities for a 5 per cent cut of the take. He is being sought. The DA's office said police know who he is.

Trapped by Own Boldness.

Dist. Atty. Frank S. Hogan said stock record clerk Gordon A. Tallman, 30, the admitted "inside man" in the larceny at Bache & Co. brokers, was trapped by his own brazenness.

After lifting more than a million dollars in stocks on June 2, Tallman was too nervous to sit down during his subsequent three hours in the Bache offices with the loot secreted inside his shirt, Hogan said.

But Tallman subsequently became bolder, Hogan added—and paved the way for his own arrest —when he pointed out to superiors an error in the original listing of stolen stocks.

The supervisors duly noted the error, and also wondered how anyone not connected with the theft could have detected it.

Securities Were Buried.

Arrested with Tallman was Robert J. Dodge, 24, an unemployed truck driver who allegedly stuffed the securities into a tin can, buried it in a lot behind an ice cream stand in upper Manhattan, and marked the spot with a rock. Dodge checked the cache daily until June 19 when Mr. X reported himself ready to deal, Hogan said.

An FBI agent in Newark, N.J., posed as a stock buyer to round up two others who were charged with transporting part of the Bache loot across state lines.

Postal Department Will Investigate Byrnes' Charges

WASHINGTON (AP)—Charges that Glenn M. Mattison, acting postmaster at Amberg, Wis., attempted to force political contributions from postal workers before he was named to the office will be investigated by the Post Office Department.

James F. Kelleher, special assistant to Postmaster General J. Edward Day, said Friday the probe will be conducted by the office of the department's chief postal inspector.

Kelleher said the Post Office Department could not publicly discuss a case under investigation, but, in response to questions, he said the postmaster general may remove an acting postmaster.

"Community acceptability" often was a factor in such cases, Kelleher said.

Byrnes Levels Charges.

Rep. John Byrnes, R-Wis., said in the House Tuesday employees at the Amberg Post Office told him that in June of last year Mattison threatened them with loss of their jobs unless they contributed two per cent of their salaries to the Democratic Party.

Byrnes said that Mattison at that time represented himself as the next postmaster at Amberg. He was nominated Jan. 22 by President Kennedy and has been serving as acting postmaster pending confirmation by the Senate.

The congressman said he referred the case to the Civil Service Commission in June, 1961, but didn't receive a reply until last March when he made a follow-up query. He said the March reply said the case was not in the jurisdiction of the commission, which had referred the information to the Justice Department.

Byrnes said the Justice Department told him there was no violation of federal law.

"The plain facts are that the Justice Department has tried harder to find reasons why it should not take action against a Democratic solicitor than it has to stamp out this particularly despicable form of political extortion," Byrnes told the House.

A Justice Department information officer, Edwin Guthman, confirmed the department had found vice president and general manager in six years.

In 1925 he became a consulting engineer for several paper mills in this country and in Canada, and in 1928 he came to Rhinelander as mill superintendent. Less than three years later he was made general manager.

Under his direction, Rhinelander Paper Co. expanded greatly and was almost completely rebuilt. When he joined the firm there were four paper machines. One was replaced in 1928 and four more were added.

While continuing as chairman of the board of Rhinelander Paper Co., Mr. Becker became a director of St. Regis Paper Co., now parent concern of the Rhinelander firm. He also was a director of Wausau Paper Mills and president and director of the R-W Paper Co. at Longview, Wash.

Throughout the years he was in Rhinelander he was identified with many business and civic activities. He served as president of the Merchants State Bank from 1933 to 1949, and in 1945 he was state chairman of the cancer fund drive. He was a member of the Rhinelander Rotary Club and the Rhinelander Country Club for years. Held Many Positions.

In other activities, he was a director of the Old Line Life Insurance Co. of America, served as president of the Lake States Yeast Corp., treasurer of Ripco Timber Co. Ltd. and vice president of the American Pulp and Paper Assn. He also was chairman of the Glassine and Greaseproof Manufacturers' Assn.

He was an honorary member of the Northland College board of trustees and in June of this year received the honorary doctor of laws degree at commencement exercises of that school in Ashland.

He also was a member of the Union League Club of Chicago and the Cloud Club of New York.

In 1951 Mr. Becker was a member of the ECA industrial team which went to the Scandinavian countries to share American "know how" for increased productivity in Western Europe. In 1951, too, he was honored by the American Forestry Assn. with a conservation award for "outstanding contributions in the field of forestry."

Headed Trees Group.

One of his primary interests for years was Trees for Tomorrow Inc., the industry-sponsored reforestation organization which he helped form. He was president of this organization from its inception in 1944 until he terminated his long service in May, 1961. Trees for Tomorrow is a non-profit group of Wisconsin paper mills and power companies with the primary purpose of stimulating interest in conservation and scientific forestry.

In conferring the honorary bachelor of laws degree on Mr. Becker in June, Northland College issued a citation which noted his career in industry and then added:

"Combined with administrative success is your deep respect for the natural resources from which your materials are taken. Primarily through your efforts, the organization Trees for Tomorrow has established itself as the organization that combines the naturalist's appreciation for his physical world and the industrialist's foresight in scientific planning for the future. Rather than allowing the land to be denuded, you have exerted vigorous leadership to ensure carefully planned reforestation."

For many years Mr. Becker also was a member of the board of directors of the Wisconsin Valley Improvement Co., which operates the Wisconsin river reservoir system.

A lasting tribute to Mr. Becker's influence on the growth of the Rhinelander Paper Co. is the name given to the No. 6 paper machine, installed in the plant here shortly after World War II. It is called "The Big Swede."

Private Camping Grounds Fast Growing Businesses

A relatively new and sizable segment of the tourist industry has developed in Oneida county in recent years, Harvey Becker, county extension agent, points out.

The new developments are privately owned and operated campsites which now number about 16 either completed and operating or in various stages of planning and construction.

None are more than three seasons old, Becker said, and most are just now beginning their first season, so it is a little difficult to determine how successful they will be.

He explained that the private campsites are able to compete, to a certain extent, with public sites because private operators can offer services and facilities not possible or unlikely to be offered in state or federal parks. Special Facilities.

Among the special offerings are laundry facilities and showers with hot and cold running water, flush toilets, private beaches, electrical outlets, ice and fishcleaning enclosures.

Because each private campsite usually is staffed at all times, it can take on the personality of the operators, Becker said, and can offer special attractions such as campfire sings, nature photography, bird watching, hiking and horseback riding on a regular or scheduled basis.

He pointed out, however, that not all operators do so but the potential is there if the demand arises.

While some operators have indicated that the month of June was slower than hoped for, this complaint has been heard from other areas of the tourist industry as well.

If the first part of July is any indication, the rest of the season looks better, several camp owners said. Bring Money in Area.

Becker emphasized that he doubts if campers affect the tourist business in any way other than to bring more money into the area.

"Campers are a breed apart," he said, "and if they cannot camp in this area they will go somewhere else." They are not usually converted resort or motel dwellers but people who in recent years have found they could more easily reach this area to camp.

He added that more and more campers are realizing that campsites closer to metropolitan areas are overcrowded and they are willing to drive the greater distance to find camps that are not jammed with tents to the extent that it becomes difficult to walk between them.

While private sites are now trying to accommodate the overflow from the public parks and to draw campers directly by advertising, it may be found that they will do better to try to satisfy a particular type of camper, who prefers the conveniences that can be offered rather than an unmarred natural setting with few conveniences.

It is highly possible that the "purist" camper will not consider pitching his tent in a park which modifies the natural setting that he came north to appreciate, Becker declared.

At any rate, he pointed out care must be taken to avoid the development of camping slums which could be the result of not following certain general criteria which, ideally, would include a minimum of 40 acres per campground, a maximum of eight campers per acre and about 100 feet between campsites.

He said naturalness of a camp should be emphasized and this could be done by maintaining the 100 feet between sites and allowing an ample growth of natural cover to screen each area.

A form of camp zoning also
